

Skaleet and Tessellate Successfully Deploy a New Core Banking Solution for a European Financial Institution

Paris, October 6, 2025 - Skaleet, a leading provider of next-generation core banking solutions, and Tessellate Group, a consulting and integration firm specialized in corporate banking, announce the successful deployment of new core banking solutions across Benelux for a European financial institution.

This project marks the completion of a full-scale implementation of Skaleet's core banking solutions, made possible by Tessellate's seamless integration, delivery expertise, and its structured Marble methodology.

The collaboration enabled the European bank to transition to a modern, modular, and API-driven core system architecture, improving scalability, maintainability, and integration capabilities with third-party solutions in under 12 months. Tessellate led the delivery effort and interface design, including the implementation and integration of Tessellate's Marble, a lending-as-a-service platform, to streamline and modernize the bank's Corporate Banking lending operations allowing for the capability to do syndicated loans across multiple banks. The project is already supporting end clients with hundreds of millions of euros of syndicated loans.

"This implementation demonstrates our capacity to execute complex CBS deployments under real conditions. We ensured that the new platform could be smoothly integrated into the bank's environment while integrating it with a state of the art Corporate Lending platform," Yuri Herman, Corporate Banking Domain Lead at Tessellate Group.

The project leveraged a proven approach to interoperability developed by Tessellate, data harmonisation, and testing strategy. The collaboration with Skaleet ensured seamless alignment between platform capabilities and operational requirements.

"This deployment continues to prove that banks can implement modern core platforms efficiently and confidently when execution and system integration are closely coordinated," Martin Della Chiesa, CEO of Skaleet.

This success reinforces the relevance of modular core banking infrastructures and confirms the viability of execution frameworks that prioritize integration, agility, and control.
